Entry Form

Closing dates for entries – 17th June 2019

PLEASE READ CAREFULLY: You will receive an email confirming safe receipt of your entry – whether that is submitted by email or post. If you do not receive that confirmation email within seven days of your submission, please call the Awards team on 01933 664437. If you are posting your entry, please also ensure you add the appropriate postage for the size and weight of the envelope.

Please note; there is a prize for the winner of this category; last year, that was to spend the day in the kitchens of Soho's Quo Vadis restaurant with Jeremy Lee, followed by a day under the watchful eye of chef Aiden McGee at Corrigan's in Mayfair. While the details of this year's prize are yet to be confirmed, the competition is proud to pledge a culinary experience which money cannot buy!

4. Selection process

Longlisting

Please be aware that our panel of local judges will select up to 12 chefs from all the entries based only on the written details which you provide about your dish in the following sections (4-6) so please be as creative and clear in your information as possible.

Shortlisting - first cook-off

Those who are selected will be invited to take part in the first cook-off (see key dates) at which they will be provided with a basket of key local ingredients and have access to a store cupboard of ingredients and from which they will be asked to devise and create a main course for two people. Details of the ingredients will be provided up to 36 hours in advance.

Final Cook-off

Following the first cook-off, up to 5 of chefs will be invited to take part in a second cook-off (see key dates); those finalists will again be provided with a basket of key local ingredients and have access to a store cupboard of ingredients from which they will be asked to devise and create a two course menu for two people. In this instance, details of the ingredients will not be provided in advance.

(For further guidance please see pages 5&6 and separate terms and conditions)

5. Invention – a Northamptonshire dish

Please name your signature Northamptonshire dish. This must be a MAIN COURSE and must be your invention or a twist on a traditional / classic / house dish.

Booker Young Chef of the Year

Entry

Entries will be verified by the organizers to ensure compliance with the Terms and Conditions, and with the spirit of the Awards. Organizers will use their best efforts to assist all entrants to comply with the Terms and Conditions but cannot be held responsible if for any reason an entry has to be disqualified or rejected. Details of entries will be passed to Northamptonshire County Council's Trading Standards Department and the relevant Borough Council's Environmental Health Department to disclose to the organizers and judges any relevant significant history, complaints, or breaches of relevant Regulations or law. The organizers will determine what action to take as a result of any such disclosure.

Longlisting

A panel of local judges will select up to 12 finalists from qualifying entrants. The panel will make its decisions based on the entry form, your dish and supporting material. The longlist will be chosen using the following criteria:-

- The entry form including:-
 - have the entry requirements been met?
 - the quality of the entry form and supporting material
- Northamptonshire Dish:-
 - is it made using local ingredients wherever possible, and is that evidenced?
- Innovation including:-
 - uniqueness, special interest, and anything which makes the dish stand out?
 - has the entrant devised or invented the dish?

Each entrant will then be advised confidentially whether they have been selected for the longlist. At this stage there will be no publicity about the status of any entry other than those who have been longlisted.

Shortlisting

Those who have been longlisted will be invited to take part in the first cook-off (see key dates) at which they will be provided with a basket of key local ingredients and have access to a store cupboard of ingredients and from which they will be asked to devise and create a main course for two people on a theme. Details of the ingredients and the theme will be provided up to 36 hours in advance.

Final cook-off

Up to 5 finalists will then be invited to take part in a second cook-off. This will take place at one time only (see key dates) and under close scrutiny by our expert, external, judges using the following marking scheme, and the results from previous stages. Again, finalists will be provided with a basket of ingredients from which they will have to devise, prepare, and present a two course meal for two people. This time details of the ingredients will not be provided in advance.

The closing date for entries is 17th June 2019
If you need any help to fill in this form – please call Rachel on 01933 664437 or email rachel@themallowscompany.com

Note:

The judges will use the following guideline marking scheme:-

Taste and presentation	30%	Hygiene	10%
Skill	25%	Healthy eating	5%
Innovation	10%	Preparation	5%
Balance of Menu	10%	Organisation	5%

The judges will discuss the results of the final cook-off and, as appropriate will take into account the results of the first cook-off and the entry from in determining a winner and runner-up (or runners-up).

The results will be announced at the Awards Dinner and all finalists will receive two free tickets to the event (per company).
